Downtown Moncton Centre-ville Inc. Executive Director resigns

Moncton – Downtown Moncton Centre-ville's Board of Directors wishes to advise that Daniel Allain has resigned from his position as DMCI Executive Director.

The Board of Directors wishes to thank Mr. Allain for the impact he has had on DMCI and for all that he brought to the organization over the past six years. The Board anticipates he will continue to be a strong friend to DMCI.

"Daniel has made an important contribution to the advancement of our downtown and we are grateful for the six years he devoted to our organization." Said Maura McKinnon, "We know that he will continue to be a friend and a strong proponent of our downtown"

DMCI Board of Directors President Maura McKinnon says: « During the recruitment phase it will be business as usual for DMCI. We will continue to focus on significant files and pursue our efforts to make downtown Moncton a thriving environment for individuals to live, work, shop, relax and invest ».

It will be a top priority of the BOD to recruit a new Executive Director in the immediate future.
